Agriculture for the future generations – AGFG

The project aims to empower youth, particularly those aspiring to or currently engaged in agriculture, by fostering inclusivity, diversity, digital empowerment, sustainability awareness, and biodiversity conservation. It aims to enhance their career prospects and contribute to rural and agricultural communities.

The project will produce a comprehensive Training Course for youth in agriculture, ensuring their essential knowledge and skills in farming, breeding, and beekeeping. Pilot testing will refine the course's effectiveness. Content will become Open Educational Resources. The results will promote biodiversity conservation, enhance youth employability and contribute to EU agriculture sustainability.
